the best of america s best writer on dance theoretically i am ready to go to anything once if it moves i m interested if it moves to music i m in love from 1973 until 1996 arlene croce was the new yorker s dance critic a post created for her her entertaining forthright passionate reviews and essays have revealed the logic and history of ballet modern dance and their postmodern variants to a generation of theatergoers this volume contains her most significant and provocative pieces over a fourth have never appeared in book form writings that reverberate with consequence and controversy for the state of the art today in recent years gian francesco malipiero has been recognised increasingly widely as one of the most original and strangely fascinating italian composers of the early 20th century he was the teacher of maderna and nono and was revered by among many others dallapiccola who even called him the most important musical personality that italy has had since the death of verdi he was also a key figure in the revival of the long neglected music of Italy's great past and himself edited what remains the only virtually complete edition of the surviving compositions of Monteverdi. The present book not only provides the first monographic survey of Malipiero's life times and music to appear in English but covers the subject more comprehensively than any previous publication in any language. Dr. Waterhouse draws on hitherto unpublished documents and with the help of numerous musical examples analyses the composer's works style and idiosyncratic personality.

reviews and commentary of dance performances in New York City chiefly from the New Yorker shows Henry Fuseli as a highly educated and sophisticated inventor of powerful and idiosyncratic images and surprising interpretations of the great texts of world literature. This book presents little known aspects of Fuseli's work portraits of fashionably dressed women with extravagant hairdos and erotic drawings.

describes authors works and literary terms from all eras and all parts of the world

The Romantic question of genre posed by Friedrich Schlegel is a question of epistemology of how art acts as an instrument of knowledge. Frames of the imagination transform this question of genre by shifting the center from Germany to Russia and to Russian Romanticism as expressed in one of its most enigmatic texts Gogol's 1835 Arabesques. This work shows Arabesques to be part of a lively philosophical debate as Gogol's contemporaries struggled to create from the ideas of European Romanticism something uniquely their own. In this study literary genre becomes a means of structuring history nationality and even personal identity as Gogol's text puts Romantic aesthetics into odd and unexpected action.
