a booksense notable title for february 2007 once in a promised land is the story of a couple jassim and salwa who left the deserts of their native jordan for those of arizona each chasing their own dreams of opportunity and freedom although the two live far from ground zero they cannot escape the nationwide fallout from 9 11 jassim a hydrologist believes passionately in his mission to keep the water tables from dropping and make water accessible to all people but his work is threatened by an fbi witch hunt for domestic terrorists salwa a palestinian now twice displaced grappling to put down roots in an inhospitable climate becomes pregnant against her husband s wishes and then loses the baby when jassim kills a teenage boy in a terrible accident and salwa becomes hopelessly entangled with a shady young american their tenuous lives in exile and their fragile marriage begin to unravel this intimate account of two parallel lives is an achingly honest look at what it means to straddle cultures to be viewed with suspicion and to struggle to find save haven

this book examines those cases where a person is promised a future inheritance and having acted on it later discovers that the promise is unfulfilled it structures its analysis and argument around the stories of disappointed promisees and their unfulfilled expectations of a future inheritance and how they might seek redress it maps and compares the various and often very diverse range of legal responses that a promisee can avail herself of across different legal areas of the law ranging from contract law to property law employment law unjust and unjustified enrichmentlaw and succession law and in both common and civil law traditions it asks how these responses protect the interests of promisees and whether they are sensitive to the context in which such promises are expressed in doing so the focus rests on the level of protection the various forms of redress grant their scope and the challenges promisees face when bringing a claim but also on the values and interests that are at stake when granting relief this book argues that due to the social and legal context within which promises of a future inheritance are normally made promisees are usually in a vulnerable position that can easily be exploited it further argues that the law is usually more acutely attuned to the risks that the promisor incurs and that greater attention should be paid to the challenges promisees face this book thus complements the traditional viewpoint by bringing into focus the too often ignored perspective of promisees this catechism is divided into three parts the first part treats of faith the second of morals the third of the means of grace in the first part our lord appears in his character of teacher in the second in his character of king and in the third in his character of high priest and since this catechism proposes as its primary object to answer the question for what purpose are we here upon earth thereby emphasizing and giving prominence to man's high calling and destiny it is especially suited to the present day when the pursuit of material interests self indulgence and pleasure engrosses the attention of so many this catechism is in fact nothing more nor less than an abstract of our lord's teaching and may be called a guide book for the christian on the road to heaven preface
